

Structural Engineer – Hadley Consultants, Queenstown

Hadley Consultants is a boutique consultancy who have a reputation for providing cost effective, practical and design focussed solutions to the civil and structural needs of projects at any scale. We believe in skilled people, not lots of people. We specialise in ensuring value not just by working smart on the engineering elements of projects, but by delivering it the right way.

Due to increasing workload we are now looking to find an intermediate to senior structural engineer to come and join our team. With a staff of 12, access to project support is straight forward and allows for rapid growth in career experience.

Our office is a converted house that we have made our own, our staff all have pretty active lifestyles so we cater for early morning runs to the ski field during winter and biking and other activities most of the year round - we even provide you with a ski pass for the season!

You will be reporting to our Structural Manager, Andrew Morris. The scale of projects goes up to $20m, on a day to day basis you will commonly run or assist on projects worth $1-5m.

You will be exposed to a variety of project activities – this could see you involved in all aspects of the structural design of high end residential homes, unique adventure tourism structures, commercial and industrial buildings, through to construction monitoring, earthquake assessment and strengthening work and the opportunity to be involved in the structural elements of civil projects.

Should you have;

- Excellent written and verbal communication skills,
- Thorough knowledge of NZ structural design standards including NZS1170 and relevant material codes,
- The ability to build excellent rapport with architects, other engineers, sub-contractors and local authorities,
- Understanding of the practical application and design of concrete, timber and steel structures,
- At least two years' experience gained in New Zealand in structural engineering.

Hadley's can offer in return a market rated salary and performance related bonus. We also offer staff benefits like a full season skipass, professional membership fees and mobile phone – for the right person we may also be able to contribute towards relocation costs to Queenstown.

We are a family friendly firm and we are keen when possible to offer a work / life balance.
